Action Is Taken After Rejection Of Trade Plan

DETROIT (AP) — The Tractors for Freedom Committee said Friday night it was disbanding because Dr. Fidel Castro's rejection of its plan to trade tractors for prisoners "has made impossible a realization of our humanitarian goals."

The committee said Castro's revised demand for $28 million worth of American trac-tors was "a move which could only be interpreted as one cal-culated to destroy any possibility of agreement."

"At the very moment we felt there was hope for reaching an understanding on the type of tractors to be delivered, Dr. Castro rejected our good faith offer of 500 agricultural tractors," the committee said.

DETROIT (AP) — The Tractors for Freedom Committee said Friday night it was disbanding because Dr. Fidel Castro's rejection of its plan to trade tractors for prisoners "has made impossible a realization of our humanitarian goals."

The committee said Castro's revised demand for $28 million worth of American tractors was "a move which could only be interpreted as one cal-culated to destroy any possibility of agreement." "At the very moment we felt there was hope for reaching an understanding on the type of tractors to be delivered, Dr. Castro rejected our good faith offer of 500 agricultural tractors," the

Commerce sources here were unable to get a figure to cover losses in revenue and wages. A spokesman said they were in the millions, but that an actual estimate was impossile.

One reason, it was explained, is that more than 800 American vessels-tankers, freighters and passenger ships—are still at sea and will not be affected by the strike until they reach port. Also unaffected are foreign ships. Chief issue, according to the unions, is their demand for collective bargaining rights aboard American-owned vessels that fly foreign flags-or so-called runaway ships.

However, the shippers said the whole pattern of union demands represent a power squeeze, with one set of unions pitted against another and the industry caught in the middle.

Goldberg said the strike is exacting a toll "the nation cannot afford at a time when every ef fort is being made to stimulate the economy

Throwing Off Chains

On May 27 of this year an "impossibility" occurred. A 35-yearold college professor, unknown even in his own state 15 months before, running on the Republian ticket, in a traditionally Democratic southern state, was elected to the United States senate.

To the Democrats, John Tower is a "hated Republican." To prevent any misunderstanding as to his political convictions, he labelled himself as a "Goldwater conservative," Yet he won the senate seat formerly held by Vice-President Lyndon B. Johnson.

This victory was reminiscent of another "impossibility."

Following the death of South Carolina Senator Maybank on September 5, 1954, the party léadership named an elderly party hack to replace him on the ticket.

Instantly there was a statewide explosion. It was too late to put on the ballot the name of an independent candidate, so a spontaneous campaign started to write in the name of former Governor Strom Thurmond.

In all United States history, no "write-in" candidate had ever won a statewide election. The hazards of getting a majority of the rank and file to comply with all the special requirements made it look like a physical impossibility. Nevertheless, "impossible" though it may have been, it happened.

One of the greatest conservatives in the country has represented South Carolina in the senate ever since.

Lessons of Tower and Thurmond are that southerners are no longer frozen in the old party mold. In South Carolina, the official party leadership thought it had everything under control when it named its own man for the Maybank seat. In Texas, "Mr. Sam" Rayburn, speaker of the house, and L.B.J. could not imagine a "hated Republican" capturing the old L.B.J. seat, which Johnson had imperiled unknowingly by resigning to accept the vice-presidency.

Today all the conditions exist for an effective Tower-Thurmond revolt against some 50-odd southern Democratic senators and rep-

These congressmen, ignoring the wishes of the people of the states they represent, are playing ball with the so - called "liberal"

Kennedy administration. In return for patronage, pork barrel projects and defense contracts, some are casting "liberal" votes who have never voted "liberal" before. We have seen a number of instances in which these southern senators and representatives were well aware of the wishes of their people but in which they yielded to administration pressure, either being bought off or casting their votes for dangerous administration proposals because they feared some sort of reprisals.

A tip-off is the vote on the aidto-education bill. No member of congress who honestly believes in states' rights and the constitution could support a program that eventually will take away from the citizens and the states the control over the education of our children and turn it over to a federal government which will politicalize it and brainwash it.

Southerners who, heretofore, have fought federal aid to education, are meekly committed to it. They are hoping that nothing will happen to them back home or, if it does, President Kennedy will give them a lifetime federal judgeship or some other political plum, preferably as far as possible from their constituency.

The Kennedy administration is appropriating most of the 73 newly created judgeships for itself and undoubtedly will dole them out in payment of political debts, instead of on a basis of capability. Fifty-eight of the new judgeships are said to be going to Democrats and only 15 to Republicans. Even the Republicans who get the jobs. in all probability, will be "liberals" and those who will do what the administration wants them to do. This is an atrocious method on which to base the appointment of men who will decide the fates of great numbers of civic and criminal cases for the next quarter of a century or more.

It is time for a full-fledged revolt of the people, such as that which occurred in Texas when Tower was elected to a seat vacated by the second highest officeholder in the country.

Every citizen who is tired of the endless succession of moves to deprive the people, business, industry and farming of the freedom which has so long been a heritage of this country should join in a political revolt.

Find out about your congressman's vote on federal aid to education. Tell him how you stand on that and other issues involving the freedom and economic stability of this country. If his reply consists of evasive double talk, he intends to vote as President Kennedy demands. If he comes out in favor of federal aid, you can join a political revolt.

Several hundred conservatives, pledged to use "their lives and fortunes" to elect a constitutional government, can cause an everwidening circle of conservatism that will turn back the tide of socialism that is threatening to engulf this country.

Airport Death Traps

Although on a passenger-mile basis, air travel is relatively safe, citizens all too often are jolted by new reports of air tragedies in which many lives are lost. Probably few of us are aware that about 60 per cent of these disasters take place at airports, where far greater safety could be attained merely by the expenditure of additional money.

Commenting on this situation, Clarence N. Sayen, president of the Air Lines Pilots Association,

"No single category of preventable accidents has caused so much loss of life as the continued lack of landing aids and airport safety standards."

Collision of a United Air Lines DC-8 jet and a Trans World Airlines Super Constellation over New York City last December 16 was cited as a documentation of the national scandal of our jammed-up airports.

"There is not a single commercial airport in the United States that is completely adequate to handle jets under all conditions," a veteran TWA pilot was quoted as saying.

Only six air facilities in the entire country have two-way instrument landing systems, so that, in effect, in most of our airports. pilots have to land at high speeds without proper instrument con-

As partial solutions to the problems, a national magazine suggests that immediate steps be taken to provide more airports built farther from cities, greatly improved electronic equipment for safe, allweather instrument landing and take-off, and planes that land and take off in less space.

According to the figures, 40 per cent of the tragedies take place on landing and 20 per cent on take-off.

This seems to be positive proof that the airports are not adequate for the type of planes in use. Either we must make the airports fit the airports. The former seems better, since we are constantly striving for greater speed and efficiency in flying. At the greatest rate of improvement we can possibly make, our airports will be inadequate for a good many years. We should improve them as rapidly as possible.

All-Out Defense Of Berlin

Bi-Partisan Resolution For Action Is Discussed Backstage In Congress As Potent Warning

Congress is to be asked to go on record in favor of the all-out defense of West Berlin, including the use of failitary measures.

President Kennedy and Secretary Rusk are discussing seeking such a dramatic declaration with key congressional leaders. In these backstage talks, a historic precedent for such action is being stressed.

This is the joint resolution voted by Congress in February 1955, at the request of President Eisenhower, giving him emergency powers to use whatever military force was necessary to safeguard Formosa and the Nationalists' outlying fortified islands against Red Chinese attack.

That blunt warning is credited with playing a decisive role in averting a looming Communist in-President Kennedy has careful-broke. Of course, it is not essential to so broke. This is most often avoidable, but some set out to do it without much thought of the aftermath.

How To Go Broke

There are even those who enjoy going broke, spending their way through life until nothing is left for them but to make a touch. So the learned professor does an essay on the subject with apt applications to what has happened and is happening to the American dollar because of the improvident spending of our money. Professor Triffin says:

There are two ways to go broke: a slow one and a fast one. The slow way is to go on, year after year, spending more money than you earn. But if you are rich to begin with, you won't go broke very fast that way. You will pay for your overspending by depleting your bank balance and other assets and by getting loans from people who trust your capacity to repay them later. "A much faster way to go broke is to finance too much of your overspending by short-term borrowing. Even if you stop overspending, you may then still run into serious trouble if your IOU's are suddenly presented to you for repayment at a time when your bank balance has fallen too low to cover them. If you still have other longer-term assets in sufficient amount, you will remain perfectly solvent, but you will be confronted, nevertheless, with what is called a liquidity crisis."

The term, "liquidity crisis," might be translated into the simple word, tight. Many of us have been tight, or to put it another way, short of cash. When a nation gets to be short of cash, it can, of course, print more paper money. It can go on printing money until its money is worth-

Professor Triffin makes the

"We have, over the past decade, spent, lent, and given away about $20 billion more than we earned and covered the difference by cash payments in gold ($6 billion) and also by short-term IOU's ($14 billion), which foreign central banks, private banks, and Professor Robert Triffin of Yala individuals were, until recently, writes with wisdom on how to go quite glad to invest in, since the dollar was regarded as safer than any other currency, and even, for the time being, as safe as gold itself."

It was, of course, too much to give away; so the dollar depreciated in value. We were not con-scious of this in the United States because we did not go hungry here. The country was rich. The people were well off, We have a high standard of living, Nevertheless, economics walked its harsh way without regard to human enthusiasms and the result was that our gold supply began to disappear. As a short-cut solution some bankers proposed that we withdraw the small gold protection that the American dollar has - a ridiculous proposal which would not have been made by those great men of Wall Street who rejected Populism and free silver and other attempts to cheapen the American dollar.

Those who believe in cheap money suffer from the aberration that the more money you have the richer you are. This is only true if the money has value. If, for instance, a currency stands at, let us say, 288 to the dollar, it means that a fellow who has $100's worth of it has 25,800 of that currency. Looking at it, 28,-800 is more than 100 but is it worth more?

I can remember when $25 a week was very good pay for a secretary who could take stenography, spell, add a column of figures, and say, "Good Morning," politely. A girl who can do all that today might command $100 or more a week, but is she getting more? The likelihood, adding taxes, social security, and the high cost of living is that she is getting less. The same is true of all wage earners; their nominal wages go up but it is in money that is worth less.

Money is nothing to fool about and politicians have a way of covering up errors by doing the wrong thing grandiloquently. But it is our money and we need to give it watchful attention. Money is the business of Congress and Congress has not been too keen on resuming its responsibility to rest on the American dollar.

SYLVIA PORTER

Revealing Truth

Telling Of Signals Of Distress Might Have Eased Recession

the nation in the spring-summer of 1960 that our economy was flashing signals of distress, the would not have spread as much as it did and hurt as many Americans as it did.

For if Eisenhower had said in public at that time what was being said in private by informed sources in his own office as well as by alert leaders of business and labor the nation over, powerful pressures would have been set into motion to moderate and shorten the decline.

Congress would have passed acceptable legislation long ago to aid our depressed areas and our long-term unemployed. Spending programs to make needed jobs and paychecks would have gone into operation a year ago. It's more than likely that short-range tax cuts to spur spending by consumers and investment by businessmen would have been put into effect — in the early stages of the 1960 recession.

But President Eisenhower did not acknowledge that our economy had slid into a recession right up to and through election day-and no law said he had to. Congress adjourned in the summer without having passed any important anti-slump legislation. Even after the recession had become unmistakably clear, the President's chief economic adviser declared that it was "bad" to talk about it-a "Papa Knows Best" attitude that was an insult to our intelligence and common sense.

Anti-recession steps were taken, yes - but not because Eisenhower asserted his leadership. The "stabilizers" already built into our economy went to work to prop incomes automatically; the Federal Reserve System on its own acted aggressively to ease credit to encourage borrowing; various government agen-cies accelerated spending via the "backdoor." As a result the 1960-61 recession turned out to be among the mildest of the post-World War II period-but it could have been even miler.

What makes this recent history newsworthy today is that a key proposal of the Commission on Money and Credit in its exhaustive report on our financial structure released this week would force future Presidents of the United States to do what Eisenhower didn't. Under the recommendation, the 1946 Employment Act would be amended to compel the President "to take a public position" and make specific moves when the economic indicators telegraphed "failures in the economy. Just the fact that the President had to take a public stand would be, the CMC wisely constrong enough to induce him to cludes, a "political liability strong enough to induce him to exert himself to avoid it"-mean-

If President Eisenhower had ing to impel the President to try been compelled by law to tell to moderate unfavorable trends before they reached the point where the law would force him to admit things had gone wrong. In simplest outline, here is what the CMC proposes: (1) When the economic indicators flashed emerging trouble (it could be inflation or deflation but to keep this simple, let's restrict this outline to deflation), the President would have to issue a statement saying conditions were unfavorable and explaining the "factors in the economy contributing to the unfavorable tendency.'

(2) He would have to list the steps being taken by him and government agencies - including the Federal Reserve System to improve the situation and explain seeming inconsistencies in any actions being taken.

(3) He would have to recommend "any Congressional action he deems desirable" — a vital directive which would strengthen his hand and enhance his authpr-(4) "So long as the unfavorable tendency prevails," President would have to issue these statements at least every recommendations for action. This proposal would put pressure on a weak President to act and would help a strong President to get action.

We are on the threshold of another breakthrough in control of depressions and inflations—and in this new phase, our President should have sharpened responsibilities which he cannot duck.

Throwing Off Chains

On May 27 of this year an "impossibility" occurred. A 35-yearold college professor, unknown even in his own state 15 months before, running on the Republican ticket, in a traditionally Democratic southern state, was elected to the United States senate.

To the Democrats, John Tower is a "hated Republican." To prevent any misunderstanding as to his political convictions, he labelled himself as a "Goldwater conservative," Yet he won the senate seat formerly held by Vice-President Lyndon B. Johnson.

This victory was reminiscent of another "impossibility."

Following the death of South Carolina Senator Maybank on September 5, 1954, the party leadership named an elderly party hack to replace him on the ticket.

Instantly there was a statewide explosion. It was too late to put on the ballot the name of an independent candidate, so a spontaneous campaign started to write in the name of former Governor Strom Thurmond.

In all United States history, no "write-in" candidate had ever won a statewide election. The hazards of getting a majority of the rank and file to comply with all the special requirements made it look like a physical impossibility. Nevertheless, "impossible" though it may have been, it happened.

One of the greatest conservatives in the country has represented South Carolina in the senate ever since.

Lessons of Tower and Thurmond are that southerners are no longer frozen in the old party mold. In South Carolina, the official party leadership thought it had everything under control when it named its own man for the Maybank seat. In Texas, "Mr. Sam" Rayburn, speaker of the house, and L.B.J. could not imagine a "hated Republican" capturing the old L.B.J. seat, which Johnson had imperiled unknowingly by resigning to accept the vice-presidency.

Today all the conditions exist for an effective Tower-Thurmond revolt against some 50-odd southern Democratic senators and representatives.

These congressmen, ignoring the wishes of the people of the states they represent, are playing ball with the so - called "liberal" Kennedy administration.

In return for patronage, pork barrel projects and defense contracts, some are casting "liberal" votes who have never voted "liberal" before.

We have seen a number of instances in which these southern senators and representatives were well aware of the wishes of their people but in which they yielded to administration pressure, either being bought off or casting their votes for dangerous administration proposals because they feared some sort of reprisals.

A tip-off is the vote on the aidto-education bill. No member of congress who honestly believes in states' rights and the constitution could support a program that eventually will take away from the citizens and the states the control over the education of our children and turn it over to a federal government which will politicalize it and brainwash it.

Southerners who, heretofore, have fought federal aid to education, are meekly committed to it. They are hoping that nothing will happen to them back home or, if it does, President Kennedy will give them a lifetime federal judgeship or some other political plum, preferably as far as possible from their constituency.

The Kennedy administration is appropriating most of the 73 newly created judgeships for itself and undoubtedly will dole them out in payment of political debts, instead of on a basis of capability. Fifty-eight of the new judgeships are said to be going to Democrats and only 15 to Republicans. Even the Republicans who get the jobs, in all probability, will be "liberals" and those who will do what the administration wants them to do. This is an atrocious method on which to base the appointment of men who will decide the fates of great numbers of civic and criminal cases for the next quarter of a century or more.

It is time for a full-fledged revolt of the people, such as that which occurred in Texas when Tower was elected to a seat vacated by the second highest officeholder in the country.

Every citizen who is tired of the endless succession of moves to deprive the people, business, industry and farming of the freedom which has so long been a heritage of this country should join in a political revolt.

Find out about your congressman's vote on federal aid to education. Tell him how you stand on that and other issues involving the freedom and economic stability of this country. If his reply consists of evasive double talk, he intends to vote as President Kennedy demands. If he comes out in favor of federal aid, you can join a political revolt.

Several hundred conservatives, pledged to use "their lives and fortunes" to elect a constitutional government, can cause an everwidening circle of conservatism that will turn back the tide of socialism that is threatening to engulf this country.

Airport Death Traps

Although on a passenger-mile basis, air travel is relatively safe, citizens all too often are jolted by new reports of air tragedies in which many lives are lost. Probably few of us are aware that about 60 per cent of these disasters take place at airports, where far greater safety could be attained merely by the expenditure of additional money.

Commenting on this situation, Clarence N. Sayen, president of the Air Lines Pilots Association,

"No single category of preventable accidents has caused so much loss of life as the continued lack of landing aids and airport safety standards."

Collision of a United Air Lines DC-8 jet and a Trans World Airlines Super Constellation over New York City last December 16 was cited as a documentation of the national scandal of our jammed-up airports.

"There is not a single commercial airport in the United States that is completely adequate to handle jets under all conditions," a veteran TWA pilot was quoted

Only six air facilities in the entire country have two-way instrument landing systems, so that, in effect, in most of our airports, pilots have to land at high speeds without proper instrument con-

As partial solutions to the problems, a national magazine suggests that immediate steps be taken to provide more airports built farther from cities, greatly improved electronic equipment for safe, allweather instrument landing and take-off, and planes that land and take off in less space.

According to the figures, 40 per cent of the tragedies take place on landing and 20 per cent on take-off.

This seems to be positive proof that the airports are not adequate for the type of planes in use. Either we must make the airports fit the airports. The former seems better, since we are constantly striving for greater speed and efficiency in flying. At the greatest rate of improvement we can possibly make, our airports will be inadequate for a good many years. We should improve them as rapidly as possible.

All-Out Defense Of Berlin

Bi-Partisan Resolution For Action Is Discussed Backstage In Congress As Potent Warning

Congress is to be asked to go on record in favor of the all-out defense of West Berlin, including the use of military measures.

How To Go Broke

Some Set Out To Do It Without Much Thought Of Results

Professor Robert Triffin of Yale writes with wisdom on how to go broke. Of course, it is not essential to go broke. This is most often avoidable, but some set out to do it without much thought of the aftermath.

There are even those who enjoy going broke, spending their through life until nothing is left for them but to make a touch.

So the learned professor does an essay on the subject with apt applications to what has happened and is happening to the American dollar because of the improvident spending of our money. Professor Triffin says:

"There are two ways to go broke: a slow one and a fast one. The slow way is to go on, year after year, spending more money than you earn. But if you are rich to begin with, you won't go broke very fast that way. You will pay for your overspending by depleting your bank balance and other assets and by getting loans from people who trust your capacity to repay them later. "A much faster way to go broke is to finance too much of your overspending by short-term bor-rowing. Even if you stop overspending, you may then still run into serious trouble if your IOU's are suddenly presented to you for repayment at a time when your bank balance has fallen too low to cover them. If you still have other longer-term assets in sufficient amount, you will remain perfectly solvent, but you will be confronted, nevertheless, with what is called a liquidity crisis."

The term, "liquidity crisis," might be translated into the simple word, tight. Many of us have been tight, or to put it another way, short of cash. When a nation gets to be short of cash, it can, of course, print more paper money. It can go on printing money until its money is worth-

Professor Triffin makes the point:

"We have, over the past decade, spent, lent, and given away about $20 billion more than we earned and covered the difference by cash payments in gold ($6 billion) and also by short-term IOU's ($14 billion), which foreign central banks, private banks, and individuals were, until recently, quite glad to invest in, since the dollar was regarded as safer than any other currency, and even, for the time being, as safe as gold It was, of course, too much to give away; so the dollar depre-ciated in value. We were not conscious of this in the United States because we did not go hungry here. The country was rich. The people were well off. We have a nigh standard of living. Nevertheless, economics walked its harsh way without regard to human enthusiasms and the result was that our gold supply began to disappear. As a short-cut solution some bankers proposed that we withdraw the small gold protection that the American dollar has a ridiculous proposal which would not have been made by those great men of Wall Street who rejected Populism and free silver and other attempts to cheapen the American dollar.

Those who believe in cheap money suffer from the aberration that the more money you have the richer you are. This is only true if the money has value. If, for instance, a currency stands at, let us say, 288 to the dollar, it means that a fellow who has $100's worth of it has 28,800 of that currency. Looking at it, 28,-800 is more than 100 but is it worth more?

I can remember when $25 a week was very good pay for a secretary who could take stenography, spell, add a column of figures, and say, "Good Morning," politely. A girl who can do all that today might command $100 or more a week, but is she getting more? The likelihood, adding taxes, social security, and the high cost of living is that she is getting less. The same is true of all wage earners; their nominal wages go up but it is in money that is worth less.

Money is nothing to fool about and politicians have a way of covering up errors by doing the wrong thing grandiloquently. But it is our money and we need to give it watchful attention. Money is the business of Congress and Congress has not been too keen on resuming its responsibility to rest on the American dollar.

Revealing Truth

been compelled by law to tell the nation in the spring-summer of 1960 that our economy was to admit things had gone wrong. flashing signals of distress, the would not have spread as much what the Cl as it did and hurt as many Americans as it did.

For if Eisenhower had said in public at that time what was being said in private by informed sources in his own office as well as by alert leaders of business and labor the nation over, powerful pressures would have been set into motion to moderate and shorten the decline. Congress would have passed acceptable legislation long ago to aid our depressed areas and our long-term unemployed. Spending programs to make needed jobs and paychecks would have gone into operation a year ago. It's more than likely that short-range tax cuts to spur spending by consumers and investment by businessmen would have been put into effect - in the early stages of the 1960 recession. But President Eisenhower did not acknowledge that our economy had slid into a recession right up to and through election day-and no law said he had to. Congress adjourned in the summer without having passed any important anti-slump legislation. Even after the recession had become unmistakably clear, the President's chief economic adviser declared that it was "bad" to talk about it-a "Papa Knows Best" attitude that was an insult to our intelligence and common sense. Anti-recession steps were taken, yes - but not because Eisenhower asserted his leadership. The "stabilizers" already built into our economy went to work to prop incomes automatically; the Federal Reserve System on its own acted aggressively to ease credit to encourage borrowing; various government agencies accelerated spending via the "backdoor." As a result the 1960-61 recession turned out to be among the mildest of the post-World War II period-but it could have been even miler.

What makes this recent history newsworthy today is that a key proposal of the Commission on Money and Credit in its exhaustive report on our financial structure released this week would force future Presidents of the United States to do what Eisenhower didn't. Under the recommendation, the 1946 Employment Act would be amended to compel the President "to take a public position" and make specific moves when the economic indicators telegraphed "failures in the economy."

Just the fact that the President had to take a public stand would be, the CMC wisely constrong enough to induce him to cludes, a "political liability strong enough to induce him to exert himself to avoid it"-mean-

If President Eisenhower had ing to impel the President to try to moderate unfavorable trends before they reached the point where the law would force him

In simplest outline, here is

(1) When the economic indi cators flashed emerging trouble (it could be inflation or deflation but to keep this simple, let's restrict this outline to deflation), the President would have to is sue a statement saying condi-

omy contributing to the unfavorable tendency. (2) He would have to list the steps being taken by him and government agencies - including the Federal Reserve System -to improve the situation and explain seeming inconsistencies tions were unfavorable and explaining the "factors in the econ-

in any actions being taken. (3) He would have to recommend "any Congressional action he deems desirable" - a vital directive which would strengthen his hand and enhance his authpr-

(4) "So long as the unfavorable tendency prevails," the President would have to issue these statements at least every recommendations for action.

This proposal would put pressure on a weak President to act and would help a strong President to get action.

Bible Thought

"God forbid that I should glory, save in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ." Galatians 6:14. The cross is a constant reminder that we are helpless in the saving of our own soul. It was Christ who died and rose again to put

Probe Of State Racing Payroll Increase Sought

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - Jefferson Parish president M Dan Hogan Friday said he would seek a grand jury probe of this year's sbarp increase in the Jefferson Downs track payroll by the State Racing Commission.

The Racing Commission hiked the track force from 38 in 1960 to 106 this year. The payroll comes from pari-mutuel track receipts, part of which goes to the parish. Hogan said the increase would eventually cost parish taxpayers about $80,000 in funds that have been budgeted for other projects. The parish loss was announced at the parish council meeting Thursday. Parish finance director Donald M. Nettles, in a letter, recommended an investigation of the increase.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the numerical ber of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Don January nudged a first - hole mid - iron shot a mere 10-feet Friday but recovered to tie Arnold Pal-mer for the lead at the midway point in the 72-hole Western Open Golf Tournament.

A sloppy combination of rain. 30-mile wind gusts and chilling temperatures turned the Blythefield Country Club course into a nerve-wracking test for the 149

In contrast with the opening round where 61 broke par, all had their hands full Friday. Palmer, who shared the first day lead at 65 with Al Geiberger of Santa Barbara, Calif., settled for 70. He and January tied with

135s after 36 holes. "It was cold, wet and miserable out there and my putting was off," said Palmer, pro golfdom's No. 2 money winner of this

He had only three one-putt greens. Geiberger had a disasterous 76 for 141.

January recovered after his 50-foot birdie putt on the 12th. He finished his round with a 69. Fred (Butch) Baird of Galveston, Tex., thrilled the 18th hole gallery when he lofted in a 150yard six-iron shot for an eagle 3, and had a 67 which gave him a 136 total for third place.

Is total for third place.

Sam Snead's day was typical of that of many of his brethren in the bad weather. He had a brilliant opening day 66 but soared to 74 including a three-putt green from 10 feet out on the ninth.

Dave Ragan of Orlando, Fla., Ted Kroll of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Dave Hill of Denver and Doug Sanders of Ojai, Calif., checked in with 137 to remain in contention.

Is a Cincinnati (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds, battling from behind all the way, defeated Los Angeles 5-4 Friday night on Eddie Kasko's bases loaded single in the ninth and stretched their National League lead to three games over the Dodgers.

Gene Freese led off the victorical supplies the Braves' four-game supplies the Braves' four-game winning streak.

Ruston Takes 10-4 Victory Over Bastrop

BASTROP, La (Special) - The sacrifice fly. Ruston Ramblers, with a roster that reads like a Louisiana Tech yearbook, finally found their hitting attack and combined it with the Dodgers scored three runs to Rodgers as Ro a medley of Bastrop errors to take a 4-2 lead. take a 10-4 La-Ark coaster here Los Angeles

Former and present Bulldogs Jackie Moreland, Ron McNabl and Frank Betts led the hit at tack with two apiece as the Ram blers took a 3-0 first inning lead on a medley of Bastrop miscues and were never headed.

Actually Bastrop outhit the Rus top nine to eight, but five bobbles, coming mainly in the open ing frame, combined with a Rambler scoring spree in the fourth when they batted around, tally when they batted around, tallying six runs on four hits and one error, doomed the home-standers. Bastrop managed one in the sixth to narrow the score to 3-1 but went behind 9-1 in the third. Ray Germany, who like Moreland once shone on the Tech hardwood, was the winner, going the route.

The only semblance of trouble to come his way was in the fifth the sixth to come his way was in the fifth to come his way was in the fifth the same tanders.

School teachers in Louisiana for he first time in history will have health and welfare program tailored especially for them start ng in September. Through cooperation with Louisiana Hospital Service a program is being designed. The benefits will be extended to cover teachers' families,

The program, including hospitalization, surgical, major medical and life protection will be provided for the teachers in all areas starting July 1. During the summer vacation teachers, throughout the state, will be contacted and given the opportunity to become familiar with the new benefits of the program, according to a spokesman for the Louisiana Teachers' Association. The new benefit plan has been brought before the state teachers organization and those who have reviewed it have found the benefits to be especially designed to fit the needs of school teachers and their families, according to the advance report from the teachers association.

A special feature of the new plan is a major medical protec-tion designed to offer financial se-curity to teachers and their dependents in providing medical care for them during periods of liness or disability. Like the other features of the new plan the benefits will be shared equally by teachers and their families.

A new regulation in the structure of the program will be of in-terest in that unlike most teachers benefits already in force, the new plan can be converted by the teachers upon retirment and can be continued for life even though a teacher leaves his duties and enters another profession or reires, it was announced.

"Instead of beng tough ... pared." President Kennedy . . . is prone to Thursday's article mentioned patch from Washington.

The Times is widely read among key government officials in European capitals. It was the second Times dispatch in two days critical of the Kenney administration.

The stinging criticism was the first major European indictment of the President since he took office and it immediately spurred speculation the British govern-ment also is disenchanted with Kennedy.

Official quarters said the Times comment did not speak for the government.

The Times Dispatch Friday made no mention of the Berlin U.S. Ambassador David Bruce and British Foreign Secretary Lord Home met Friday & discuss Berlin but both American and British diplomats said the meeting had nothing to do with the Times dispatch.

The Times said two events have shaken the Kennedy administraion: The Cuban affair "which obviously persuaded President Kennedy that he is ill-served by official and military advice," and the School teachers in Louisiana for ne first time in history will have health and welfare program ailored especially for them startin September. Through cooperation with Louisiana Hospital Service a program is being designed. The benefits will be extended to cover teachers' families, The program, including hospitalization, surgical, major medical and life protection will be provided for the teachers in all areas starting July 1. During the summer vacation teachers, through out the state, will be contacted and given the opportunity to become familiar with the new benefits of the program, according to a spokesman for the Louisiana Teachers' Association.

The new benefit plan has been brought before the state teachers rganization and those who have eviewed it have found the beneits to be especially designed to fit the needs of school teachers and their families, according to advance report from the achers association.

A special feature of the new is a major medical protecion designed to offer financial seurity to teachers and their dependents in providing medical are for them during periods of liness or disability. Like the othfeatures of the new plan the enefits will be shared equally by teachers and their families.

A new regulation in the structure of the program will be of interest in that unlike most teachers benefits already in force, the new plan can be converted by the teachers upon retirment and can be continued for life even though a teacher leaves his duties and enters another profession or reires, it was announced.

How To Keep Well

by Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

TOTOR TRIPS WITH CHILDREN A successful motor trip with children requires an understanding of child psychology. The majority of youngsters have no interest in scenery, historic markers, or the fresh country air. A car is a way to get there — the scener, the better — and the scener are wonderful for rough. iests are wonderful for roughhousing or to sleep on.

The small fry are restless travtlers and tire easily unless their minds are kept occupied. Dole out a few picture or comic books and they will sit quietly until the contents are digested. Then play one of the driving games to pass the time. Spotting birds and ani-mals is popular; those sitting on the right watch their side of the road and vice versa. Chickens count one point, pigs two, cows three, and horses four. Each family makes up its own scoring rules but this is the general idea.

Another pastime is to identify state license plates or automobile makes. Children learning to read are thrilled when they recognize familiar words on a billboard. Singing and nursery rhymes often entertain the whole family.

Don't neglect their bodily needs. Youngsters are too excited to eat a leisurely breakfast before starting out the first day but they get hungry after the novelty of the first 100 miles has passed. Mother should be prepared with a picnic lunch; or fresh fruit. cookies, or rolls are easily obtained on the road.

Raw carrot strips can be munched to keep the tykes from getting rebellious, restless, or hungry. Dried figs and apricots serve the same purpose.

Dress the children in cool and easily washed clothing, such as shorts or blue jeans. Get out and stretch every few hours as tots can't sit too long without getting fidgety. Stop by 4 or 5 p.m., as children rarely can take more than 300 or 400 miles daily.

IS CANCER INFECTIOUS? M. R. writes: We were taught that cancer is neither contagious nor infectious. If the disease is due to a virus, as is thought. would it be considered contagious or infectious?
